GOMPERS IS BETTER WHEN HE HITS U. S.

"Feel" of Native Soil Revives Old Labor Leader

BULLETIN

San Antonio, Texas, Dec. 12.—(By the Associated Press)—A regular International Great Northern Railroad passenger train carrying Samuel Gompers to San Antonio, left Laredo this morning at 9:30 o'clock, according to advices to the dispatcher's office of that road here this morning.

Mr. Gompers' train passed Encinal at 11:55 o'clock, the dispatcher's office reported and was about 55 minutes late. Encinal is 115 miles from San Antonio.

BULLETIN

Laredo, Texas, Dec. 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Samuel Gompers, American labor leader, was able to sit up on the side of his bed and take slight nourishment as his train left Laredo on its way to San Antonio. In addition to the milk he was also given a cup of tea.

When the train left Laredo, Mr. Gompers was resting easily. There was no change in his condition. His physician said his heart and kidneys were giving trouble.

ARRIVED AT BORDER

Laredo, Texas., Dec. 12.—By the Associated Press) — President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor arrived at the American border here at 7:30 this morning in a critical condition suffering from bronchial infection. He is to be rushed through to San Antonio this morning and will be taken to the St. Anthony Hotel there this afternoon.

His physician said his life would be in danger unless the aged leader could be given hospital treatment shortly.

He sank low yesterday on the trip from Mexico City where he had been attending the Pan-American Labor Federation meeting, but with remarkable vitality rallied last night, and this morning was noticeably improved.

A room in a local hospital had been reserved for him by U. S. customs officials but his improvement was such that it was believed safe to take him on to San Antonio.

Met by Officials

Mr. Gompers 'train was met on the Mexican side by Dr. Nat King, United States health service, and other American officials. Mexican government officials and secret service men were aboard, as well as many members of the Gompers party who had accompanied the leader to the Mexican capital.

President Calles of Mexico had wired to Felix Salines, chief of the Mexican immigration service at Nuevo Laredo, across the Rio Grande from Laredo, instructing him to see that Mr. Gompers and his party was given every courtesy.

The coach in which Mr. Gompers was lying was taken from the train and brought immediately to the American side without the usual custom formalities.

Mr. Gompers' condition is described as a bronchial trouble, complicated by a recurrence of his illness of some months ago. It has not been definitely diagnosed, his physician said, and whether there were evidences of pneumonia, he was not prepared to say.

The Federation officials with the party were up all last night wiring telegrams to the United States on their chief's condition, but few of the messages went through, it was said. Reports of Mr. Gompers' death caused a flood of messages to pour into Laredo yesterday and last night and the Gompers train was beseiged by anxious labor officials and friends when it arrived on the American side.

Official Statement

An official medical statement issued shortly after the train's arrival said that the patient's respiration was 24 and his pulse normal at 7 a. m.

No one, except his physician and his secretary, Mr. Giles, was permitted to see Mr. Gompers on board his train. He lay in his berth, apparently resting quietly, dozing occasionally into brief sleep.

Mr. Giles wired to San Antonio to have ten rooms ready in a hotel there for Mr. Gompers and his party.

The first plans were to take the patient to the hotel, but these arrangements may be changed en route and it is possible he will go to a hospital immediately on arrival in San Antonio.

The high altitude of Mexico City affected the aged man to some extent, his physician said, and it was believed that he would improve as he neared the lower atmosphere of Texas.

His kidneys had been bothered by a change of drinking water and it was thought a return to the water he was accustomed to drinking might bring some improvement in this regard.

Remarkable Battle

Despite his advanced age, the patient's ability to battle for his life was said to be remarkable.

During the long journey up from Mexico City he remained cheerful, slept as much as possible, but took little nourishment. Efforts of his physicians and followers were directed toward keeping him quiet and conserving his strength, which was far spent on the long journey.

Goodfellows Responding

REPLIES TO FIRST CALL ARE COMING

Santa Must Not "Forget" Any Boy or Girl in the City

Henry H. Hey, First Goodfellow in City: Phoned Last Evening

To Henry M. Hey of 424 W. First Street belongs the honor of being the first Goodfellow to get over the wire in the race to provide full stockings for the poor children of Dixon on Christmas morning.

The first invitation to the Goodfellows of Dixon to join in this good work appeared in last evening's Telegraph and at 5:20 last evening Mr. Hey telephoned this office and volunteered his services.

And bright and early this morning "A Friend" handed the Goodfellow Committee a dollar, which will be used to help restore some little urchin's faith in humanity in general and Santa Claus in particular.

Rise up, you Goodfellows, and let us hear from you.

Picture in your mind a little five year old girl. She lives in a tumbledown cottage with her little brothers and sisters and her mother. She hasn't any daddy. She has hardly enough clothing to keep her warm. Like the rest of the forlorn little family, she has little enough to eat. The money her mother earns at washing just barely pays the rent and supplies a few meagre necessities of life to keep starvation from the door.

This youngster watches for the approach of Christmas with just as much hope and wonder and has the same cherished dreams of Santa Claus as all the well-dressed, well-fed and carefully-protected children in the many comfortable homes in Dixon. Unless some Goodfellow comes along this poor little girl, and her brothers and sisters, and many other children in the same unfortunate circumstances will wake up to a cold and cheerless Christmas Day, with no Santa Claus to make them happy.

"Have a Heart" Goodfellow

Have a heart, Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow. Let us give you the name and address of some little tot that you can take under your wing for Christmas time.

You can afford to spend a few dollars for a little Christmas tree and a few simple presents. We know there are plenty of Goodfellows in Dixon to go around and we are not afraid to promise every poor youngster in Dixon that Santa Claus will not forget them. Help us make that promise good. All the Telegraph's Goodfellow Club does is to get the little children and the Goodfellows together. We want the names and addresses of every poor child in Dixon. We also want the names of every Goodfellow. We want them soon, because Christmas is almost here.

To Investigate Calls

The homes of all the children on our list will be visited and the extent of their needs determined. For those Goodfellows who do not care to take the names of children and supply their Christmas for them, there is still an opportunity to do much good, for they can send a cash donation to the Goodfellow Club, care of The Evening Telegraph, and every penny of the donation will be spent in making some little youngsters happy on Christmas day.

Most of us here in Dixon live in comfortable homes and enjoy many of the luxuries of life as well as the necessities. We look forward to Christmas time with pleasure for it means much fun and happiness. We tell our own youngsters to write to Santa and tell him what they want, and we assure them that if they are good the nice old fellow will come Christmas eve and leave almost everything they ask for. And we know he will. We have arranged for all that.

Will Santa "Forget"

But suppose, Mr. Goodfellow, that you were down and out and sick and had been out of work all summer and had no friends or relatives that could afford to help you out. The approach of Christmas would not be very pleasant then. It would be pretty hard to see your youngsters wake up Christmas morning and find that Santa Claus had forgotten them.

Let us make the poor kids of Dixon believe that old Santy makes no discrimination when he makes his Christmas eve trip. Let us bring a little cheer into every humble home. We'll enjoy our own Christmas all the more.

Remember please that quick action is imperative. We want the names and addresses of poor youngsters who will have no Christmas without some help and we want the names of the Goodfellows who will furnish that help.

Address the Goodfellow Club, Dixon Evening Telegraph.

"FORGOTTEN"

To prevent any such heart-breaking scene as this in Dixon on Christmas morn is the aim of The Evening Telegraph's Goodfellow Club, co-operation in which is asked of every Goodfellow in the community.

I'LL BE A GOODFELLOW

I will provide a Merry Christmas for.....poor children

Or

I will contribute $..... to The Evening Telegraph Goodfellow Club fund for the purchase of Christmas gifts for poor children.

Name.....

Address.....

Note to Signer: Fill in either the number of poor children you will be Santa Claus to or how much you will give. We will try to assign families living in your part of town. Return coupon, filled out, to this office, and if you give cash donation, please send it with the coupon.

WIFE FORMER DIXON DOCTOR DIED THIS A. M.

Mrs. G. W. I. Brown is Called After Long Illness Today.

Mrs. G. W. I. Brown, wife of Dr. George W. I. Brown, a former Dixon physician and a sister of T. J. Miller, Sr., of this city, passed away at 7:30 Chicago, after a year's illness, during o'clock this morning at her home in which time she could neither talk nor walk, but which did not prevent her taking her place with her family at the table until about a week ago.

Her body, accompanied by all the members of the family, will be brought to Dixon for funeral services, which will be conducted at the Staples chapel at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Rev. A. S. Moore, pastor of the M. E. church officiating, and with burial in Oakwood. The pall bearers, at her request, will be her five nephews, sons of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Miller and her nephew by marriage: Hugh, Ray, Guy, T. J., Jr., and Ezra Miller and Frank Wilson; and Mrs. Katherine Ballou and Mrs. Lee Read will sing, also at her request.

Mrs. Brown, who had many friends in Dixon, all of whom will mourn her passing, was born Nov. 24, 1845, and is survived by her husband; a daughter, Edna; and two sons, Attorney Roy Brown and George Brown, who, with their wives, will accompany the funeral party to Dixon.

Mrs. Brown was one of Dixon's most esteemed women during her residence here, her friends being numbered by the score and her attainments making her popular with all who knew her. Her chief interest was always in her home, which she made a happy circle for the members of the family at all times.

BULLETIN

EMULATION OF POISON DEATHS IS TRIED HERE?

Acting in a fit of anger, a foreign woman living outside the city limits of Dixon, is reported to have attempted the life of her husband by feeding him a sandwich filled with mercury. Cleverly planning the act, the woman is alleged to have exercised too much attention in preparing her husband's lunch and he suspected that all was not well.

The wife had returned recently from a visiti and her action followed a quarrel, according to the report, whreeupon she undertook ot end her husband's earthly career with the quick poison. The husband is said to have eaten a part of the sandwich and to have become ill, but hurried to a physician with the remainder of the sandwich which was examined and treatment to relieve him of his suffering was administered. Names have not been made public to date because of the fact that no official action has yet been started in the case. The attending physician, however, states that the man is still under observation, but is apparently recovering from the dose of quick silver which he ate in the sandwich.

Danville, Ill., Dec. 12.—It was learned from authentic sources today, according to the Danville Commercial-News, that the termination of the strike of the trainmen on the Illinois Traction System lines, will be reached tonight and operations resumed on all lines by Saturday morning.

The six locals in Danville, Peoria, Springfield, Decatur, Staunton and St. Louis voted today on a compromise proposal from the traction system, said to embody an agreement to the demand for a "closed shop" and to offer a penalty of ten cents an hour overtime, figuring nine hour days in the passenger service and ten hour days in the freight service.

Indications are that this compromise is satisfactory to the men, although the result of the vote will not be known until the ballots are counted by the joint committee, which will reconvene this afternoon or tonight in Springfield.

May Recall Winnebago Grand Jury on Milk Case

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Elgin, Ill., Dec. 12—A recall of the October term of the Boone County grand jury is predicted as a result of the death last night of Richard Saunders, farmer milk striker, who was shot by either State Highway Patrolman Paul Clendening of Elgin, or Fremont Nestor of Belvidere, in a clash between pickets and patrolmen at Garden Prairie, Tuesday.

State's Attorney F. A. Oakley declared today that he would request a grand jury recall for the purpose of making a thorough investigation into the fatal shooting.

Saunders, who was shot as he attempted to dump milk from a truck in which the officers were riding, died after undergoing two operations in an attempt to save his life.

Both officers face charges and possible indictment now as a result of the farmer's death. Preliminary hearing in their case has been set for next Tuesday.

In protest, Boone County milk producers announced that an automobile parade will be held on the Grant Highway between Belvidere and Rockford tomorrow.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Marion, Ill., Dec. 12—The statement of S. Glenn Young that he was hired by the Williamson County Board of Commissioners and not by the Ku Klux Klan was denied by Sam Stearns, chairman of the board and S. E. Sterme, county clerk. County Treasurer Melvin Thaxton said that he had never paid any county orders for work done by Young. Stearns said that Young was not at that time and is not now employed by the board.

A prediction that State's Attorney Boswell, Klansman, would nolle the indictments of Klansmen in Williamson County failed to materialize in County Court this week, when Boswell asked that a special prosecutor be appointed for all of the cases, including those against Young. Boswell, before his election, represented many of the Klansmen and in himself named in some of the indictments.

"How many we have sent away as we did Trotsky, raging against established government and distrustful of everything Christian, God only knows.

But let us put an end to this worse than misuse of the greatest opportunity that comes to you as a Christian citizen, the chance to introduce men and women to Jesus Christ on American soil."

The Presbyterian general council, which closed its sessions last night took under serious consideration plans presented to it by Dr. Vance for unification of church finance. It will report upon the matter to the next general assembly.

Cut Out the "X" and Make it Real Christmas

The use of the abbreviation "Xmas" for "Christmas" will not be further tolerated by members of the Davenport Advisers' Club, according to a resolution adopted to that effect at the regular meeting of the group. It is claimed that the abbreviation takes the Christ out of the holiday.

The use of "Xmas" is not regarded as good usage by most reputable newspapers. The Evening Telegraph is opposed to the abbreviation. Christmas comes but once a year and when it comes it is entitled to be recognized by its proper name.

THE OLD HOMESTEAD—

From the Kansas City Times.

Through prison bars of city life,
So full of ceaseless, changing strife,
I see the blossoms, white as snow,
In that old home of long ago;
Where birds are singing, free from care,
And fragrant roses scent the air,
And lilac bloom too sweet to last,
Those perfumed memories of the past.
I see the children laugh and play
On this glad resurrection day.
No more those happy voices fill
That dear old homestead on the hill.

I could not live a life so cold,
When all had left that home so old
To seek that place where dreams come true—
Those dreams, alas, that some shall rue.
And then I, too, my way will wend
The winter of my life to spend
In the sunshine of their laughter
Till the springtime of Hereafter.
And there I'll greet them one by one
After their work in life is done.
So fare-thee-well, old home so still—
You dear old homestead on the hill.

Appeared in Play By Arbutus Club

Mrs. Adolph Eichler of Dixon, one of the city's most popular readers, was in Amboy Wednesday evening where she appeared in the play given by the members of the Arbutus club, in Masonic Hall, "Joint Owners in Spain." Mrs. Eichler assumed one of the leading roles, that of Miss Dwyer, and as usual, was one of the stars of the production.

The Masonic hall was well filled by Masons and friends and members of the O. E. S. and friends, also. A flag drill was given and a number of piano selections were also enjoyed, the entire evening proving one of exceptional pleasure to all present.

First Number Music Assn. Wednesday

The first number in the course to be enjoyed this winter by the Dixon Civic Music association will be held Wednesday evening, Dec. 17th, at the Family theater. At this time, Jacques Gordon, distinguished violinist and concertmaster of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and Glenn Drake, tenor, young American artist, will give the program.

The members of the association are all on the qui vive in anticipation for the first concert, and from advance notices of these two artists, no one will be disappointed in the program put before them.

The fact that eighty per cent of the cities where Glenn Drake has appeared during the past two seasons, have re-engaged him is responsible for him being called "The singer of return engagements."

Jacques Gordon, the distinguished violinist and concertmaster of the Chicago Symphony orchestra is a native of the city of Odessa, the southern gateway of Russia. He attended the Imperial Conservatory, his instructor being Franz Stupka, at present conductor of the Prague Philharmonic orchestra.

The position of concertmaster of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra was proffered to Mr. Gordon by Mr. Stock, after an exhaustive scrutiny of the available violinistic material in this country and Europe. The wisdom of this choice has been more than justified. Mr. Gordon's commanding mastery as soloist has won the unanimous and enthusiastic approval of the musical public and the press.

Mr. Gordon has appeared as soloist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, Frederick Stock, conductor, many times at concerts in leading cities throughout the country.

W.O.M.L. Installatoin Ceremonies Beautiful

The Women of Mooseheart Legion held a picnic installation Tuesday evening in Moose hall. The meeting was called to order by the Senior Regent, Julia Schweinsberg and every one joined in singing the opening ode, The Star-Spangled Banner.

The Chaplain, Etta Behrends, was then escorted to the altar by the Guides, Emmagene Morris and Adele Keyser and gave the opening Prayer, after which the Guides and degree staff retired and escorted the Grand Installing officer, Legionaire Marie B. Hetler and Legionaires Mary Hill and Esther Trouth, Grand Guide and Grand Organist, into the Chapter room, where the Guide Emmagene Morris introduced them. They were then escorted to their stations. The Senior Regent had the Guides escort, Dictator Russell Wilhelm and his secretary, Frank Wadzinski, to her station, where they were introduced and given the honors of the chapter. The Senior Regent then turned the meeting over to the grand installing officers who proceeded to install the following officers for the year:

Senior Regent Legionaire — Julia Schweinsberg.

Junior Regent Legionaire — Hazel Kelly.

Past Regent Legionaire—Lucy Rosbrook.

Chaplain Legionaire—Etta Behrends

Treasurer Legionaire—Mary A. Hill

Recorder Legionaire—Marie B. Hetler.

Guides Legionaire—Emmagene Morris and Adel Keyser.

Sentinel Legionaire—Margaret Petit.

Argus Legionaire—Odella Bott.

Musician Legionaire—Irene Smith.

The installation ceremony was very impressive and beautiful and the Grand installing officer and Grand guide, assisted by the degree staff, dressed in white and using our beautiful flag, deserve a great deal of praise for the manner in which they did their work.

After the new officers were installed the Senior Regent was given the honors of the chapter. She then made a few remarks, thanking all the Legionaires for their loyalty to her.

At this time the Grand Installing Officer Marie Hetler, in her pleasing and gracious manner presented the Senior Regent with a gift from the chapter. She responded with a few words. The Senior Regent then presented her grand installing officers with a gift, as a token of love and esteem.

At this time a program was given which Mrs. Hetler had prepared and which was much enjoyed, the first number being a vocal solo by A. Magnifichia, accompanied at the piano by Earnest Hettler; a solo dance by Lucille Minnehan; a reading by Miss Eva Richardson; piano solo by Gertrude Walden; reading by Katherine Nagle; piano solo by Theresa Walden; vocal solo by Myrtle George, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Corabell George.

A talk by Dictator Russel Wilhelm, also his secretary, Frank Wadzinski, were much enjoyed by all. A visiting brother Moose, from Terre Haute, Ind., Brother Slater, was present and was called upon and he gave a fine talk about Mooseheart and the order and he said he was surely happy to be present and enjoy the fine program, also the excellent work by the degree staff and officers. This concluded the program. The Chaplain was asked to give the closing prayer, after which the meeting was closed by singing the closing ode.

The committee then served light refreshments of frappe and wafers.

Christmas Banquet Golden Rule Class

The Golden Rule Class of the Sunday school of St. Paul's Lutheran church enjoyed a Christmas banquet last evening at the church. To spread good cheer at this glad holiday season, each member was privileged to invite a friend to enjoy the evening with her.

At 6:30 last evening ninety-four members and friends of the class were seated at beautifully decorated tables and a bounteous repast served in courses. Each table had as a centerpiece a tiny tree, prettily decorated and red candles shed their radiant glow over happy faces as the tempting food was enjoyed. The red and green color combination was carried out in the ices, which were red and green.

Mrs. Raymond Worsley was toastmistress for the occasion and at the conclusion of the banquet called on various members and each made a short and pertinent talk, including Mrs. Will Spindler, Mr. Spindler, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Emmert, Reverend Watler and his new bride, Miss Florence Rudolph and Miss Bernice Wilhelm, who is the class president, at this time, presented to the teacher of the class, Miss Minnie Johnson, a handsome silk umbrella, as a gift from the members of the Golden Rule Class. Miss Johnson expressed her thanks for the gift.

Then a short musical program was much enjoyed, the numbers including a piano solo by Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth, a quartet number by Miss Eva Peterson, Mrs. Sumner Wilson, Mrs. George Pitzer, Mrs. Edna Bott, accompanied on the piano by Miss Josephine Whitish, and a violin solo by Alonzo Boyer, accompanied at the piano by Miss Lucile Pearse.

After the program all gathered 'round the large Christmas tree which was prettily decorated and each one present received gifts therefrom, much merriment resulting from this part of the entertainment for the exchange gifts were inexpensive and some of them of a most humorous nature. At a late hour after an evening replete with pleasure and entertainment the guests sought their homes, long to remember the delightful Christmas party of 1924.

THE GOLDEN IDOL.

A Boston rabbi protests against the way Americans worship success. He fears that admiration of successful men has reached a magnitude where it is a form of idol-worship which leads to the surrender of all judgment of comparison and value."

The public is becoming wiser, though.

It is not many years since a man's wealth was the measure of his success. His dollars told the story.

We believe that achievement is rapidly taking the place of money as the emblem of success. Henry Ford, for instance, would be rated little less highly if he had only a moderate fortune. The people marvel at him rather because of the millions of motor cars he has produced than on account of his enormous fortune.

Steinmetz, of his own choosing, left a very small estate when he died. Money did not concern him. Nor did it concern his admirers. They cared not that Steinmetz had not accumulated millions. What they admired was his accomplishment.

Rockefeller, senior, used to be famous mainly as the world's richest man. In time his dollars will be eclipsed by his organizing genius and his wisdom in spending millions for medical research and education.

The golden idol is being torn down. In its place is the idol accomplishment, which is just another name for service to humanity.

The public is getting wise in still another direction. There's an increasing comprehension that some of the greatest successes are men who never accumulate a fortune or do anything big enough to get them into the limelight.

Take a man handicapped by paralysis or blindness, yet who struggles doggedly and supports himself and family comfortably. Take a man who, by hard work and determination, counteracts inferior ability and gets along reasonably well. Take the average man and wife who make just a fair living and educate their children.

All these are successes—great successes—in the eyes of Americans today.

Success is not so much a matter of results, but in character and doing the best we can with limited abilities and opportunities.

THE WISCONSIN YAWP.

Wisconsin is a grand state—especially in "the good old summer time"—but is somewhat unfortunate in so long and tenderly nurturing one Bob LaFollette. Since November 4 the state has been more clearly cognizant of the mistake she has been making, and now the Janesville Gazette has devoted a long editorial to what most people would call an apology. But the Gazette says it is not an apology, only an explanation.

The Gazette repeats the old story about the travelers in the Pullman, each proudly naming the state of his birth, when the little jaundiced man, called upon to testify concerning himself, replied with a challenge, "I was born in Arkansaw; now, damn it, laugh."

It's a good deal that way with Wisconsin these days. The Gazette complains that the outsider judges Wisconsin only by the election returns. "We may have a boil in Wisconsin," says the Gazette, "but it is political and will not be fatal. We have the experience of Job, who was an expert in boils, and survived, to prove it." Then the Janesville paper enumerates a lot of the really good and worthwhile things Wisconsin is and does, including the making of cheese, that has almost any foreign flavor the customer wants. The holes in its Swiss cheese are filled with air from Green county, in southern Wisconsin.

Again: "In Wisconsin the blind outsiders have only examined the Wisconsin political yawp. Every state has them, but Wisconsin like in all else believes in the superlative even in its yawps. . . . We have no more fool laws than in other states."

Yes, Wisconsin is bound to survive even the LaFollette yawp, at least as well as Bob will survive the November election. But why can't Wisconsin be neighborly? Why need it continue to be the one lost sheep in the surrounding bunch of states which have the reputation of being civilized, even politically. We all like Wisconsin cheese, but the Wisconsin yawp doesn't seem to improve its flavor.

CASHIER.

Boston tries out a mechanical cashier on its elevated railways. Customer puts into a slot any coin from 50 cents down, and the machine automatically makes change and lets him pass through the wicket. Movie ticket sellers and thousands of others might be displaced by such a machine.

We call ours the "mechanical age." Yet, compared with the future, we have barely begun to use machinery, which eventually will do the bulk of man's work and enable him to live comfortably by work only a few hours a day.

SOIL.

Automatic machinery has developed to the point where you can imagine a future generation "taking life easy" while machines do the work.

Who'd supply the food? Machinery cannot grow it. Soil tillers would flock to the city, escaping long hours of toil. Possibly the airplane will break up the cities and people will scatter to the country, each family growing most of its own food.

VOTE SLACKERS.

Complete returns show that, out of every 1000 citizens entitled to vote, 528 cast ballots for president this year.

In 1920, the figure was only 491 out of 1000.

The gain is small. But it's far from discouraging. The tide has, at least, been turned. For 40 years the percentage of vote slackers increased steadily. A situation like that cannot be remedied in a few months of educational campaigning. The campaign must be continued steadily.

TOM SIMS SAYS

St. Louis news today. Man asked a policeman to shoot him. Maybe he believed what his wife said about him.

Christmas is coming in Chicago. Girl says she forgives a man who shot her in the ear.

Our selection, after much thought, of an All-America football team this season is Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus.

What means Christmas in four letters? No, it isn't "Xmas." Give up? Well, that's it. It is "give."

Bad Utah news today. Car load of eggs broken in a train wreck. And the hens so busy trying to lay up some for Christmas.

Christmas and Thanksgiving were put a month apart to give us all time to get hungry again.

Only four more shopping months before Easter. How time flies. And after Easter comes fly time. Ho hum.

Prosperity is coming back unless we start yelling and scare it away.

The only real relief for a bad cold seems to be cussing.

A very practical costume for the chilly nights is a stove trimmed with an easy chair and a book.

Be careful when buying eggs for Christmas. They may be bad. And the same is true about the nogg.

The biggest pumpkin reported in our town this year was a farmer who bought some canned vegetables.

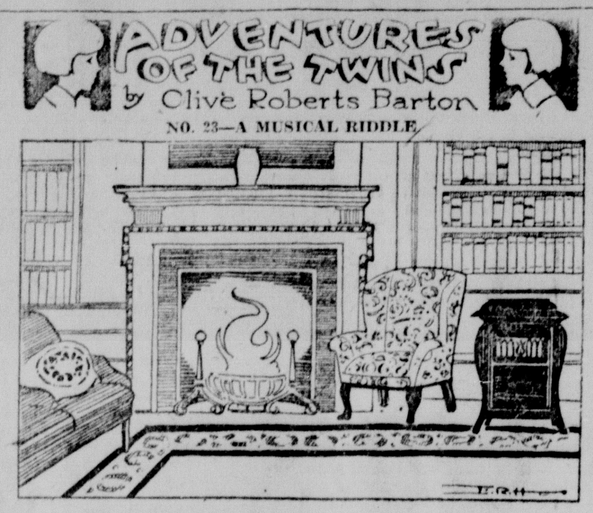

Talk about good luck. We know a man whose two daughters married one coal man and one plumber.

Couples who married last June are arguing about which will get up first these chilly mornings.

One great trouble with owning a flivver in winter is when you shiver your fenders rattle so.

Wouldn't it be fine to be a fortune-teller and know who will give you what for Christmas?

Now I sing an opera song,
Now Ip lay dance quite merry.

"Are there any more riddles in the Riddle Lady's book?" asked Mother Goose.

"Yes," said Nancy hopping up in her chair again. "Come on, everybody! Come close and I'll read the ones that are left. They are very easy. You'll guess this one the first thing:

"Now I sing an opera song,
Now I play a dance quite merry,
Now I yodle loud and long,
Now I chirp like a canary.

"I can play a ukelele,
Sing songs of a southern clime,
If you exercise once daily,
I can keep you right on time.

"Will you have an Irish jig?
I can play one on a fiddle,
If you're smart and not too big,
I can also ask a riddle.

"Fairy tales I know by dozens,
Funny stories, poems new,
Ask your friends all in—and cousins,
And the children, ask them, too!

"I can play band tunes quite martial,
Songs of war, of drums loud beating,
If to noisy things you're partial,
Cannon, bells, and troops retreating.

"Who am I, who has such talent,
Who can sing and play and talk,
I can do what'ere you ask me,
I can do 'most anything but walk.

"Well," said Nancy, "What is it?"

"I can't guess!" said Po Peep.

"Neither can I!" said Little Miss Muffet.

But the truth was that nobody could guess.

"There must be something the matter," declared Mr. Bun, the Miller Man. "I happen to know that Mother Goose Landers are 'specially smart, and when they can't guess, there is something wrong."

Suddenly Nancy had an idea. "I know! I know!" she cried loudly. "Mother Goose people are old-fashioned, and this is not an old fashioned thing. This is something not so very old, and Mother Goose people are very, very old!"

"Well, I like that!" declared Mary Mary.

"So do I!" said everybody.

"But it's true," Said Nancy. "Mother Goose people are sort of behind the times."

Daw.

"The very idea!" said Bo Peep.

"The very idea!" declared Mary, Mary.

But at last when nobody could guess, they just had to give up. They just had to. Nobody knew what it was.

"It's a phonograph!" said Nancy.

"What's that?" they all wanted to know.

So the Twins told them all about it, how it could do almost anything.

"It's almost like a radio," said Nick.

"A radio!" exclaimed the Wise Man. "What's that?"

"Oh, dear!" exclaimed the Twins. "How very old fashioned you Mother Goose people are!"

New York—At noon every day for the past several years a bill collector visits a bird and pet store on Fifth Avenue. All the animals know him. He sticks his hand in the monkey cage and the marmoset gently nibbles at his finger. There is one huge parrot which ferociously stabs at everyone who comes near his cage, but when the bill collector approaches the parrot bows his head so it can be rubbed.

"I don't know who the man is," Charles Abbott, the proprietor told me, "but I fancy that this little hobby is his reaction to dunning human deadbeats during the day. He relaxes and probably becomes an entirely different person while here with the wild things of the forest. Or maybe it is just the outcropping of primitive instincts in a city-dweller who sees little of nature."

Blind girls have made good in a number of situations in New York. One is in a publishing house, one with the Boy Scouts organization, one a worker with a big department store and one in an insurance office. And they do not lack for entertainment. They all play bridge, dance and go to the theater. Two are accomplished amateur actresses. One writes poetry and another is an expert horsewoman.

Margaret Foley told her life story to the Business and Professional Woman's League the other night. She came to New York from Chicago alone and with only $70. She obtained a position as a dictaphone operator and has had four increases in pay in two years. She reaches her office unescorted on time every morning, despite the great subway crush. Margaret Foley is blind.

Al Smith just made a Sachem in the Columbian Order of the Society of Tammany, is the first governor to be so honored. He also is the first man with a sore toe to be imitated. And during the secret ceremonies Judge Olvany, Tammany chieftain, stepped on that toe.

Time was when the movie producer pre-released their films on Broadway and then advertised them throughout the county as New York hits. Now they show them in other cities and if they are favorably received bring them to Broadway for "world premiers."

New York—The six-day bike races at Madison Square Garden. A dozen riders circling around a small saucer with 10,000 human flies crowded on the rim. A dozen automatons, seemingly, with their legs threshing up and down on pivots. Monotony for hours. A slight thrill for a few moments when they "sprint." The least colorful of all sports.

Bike riders are the most impersonal of all athletes. There is nothing distinctive in them as they sit hunched over their handlebars. Yet Madison Square Garden is packed with spectators, many staying there all night, eating hot dogs and washing them down with pop.

Bobby Walthour varied things a little this year by working a cross-word puzzle as he rode around the elipse. That was probably the first time that one of these puppets showed that he was not entirely mechanical.

Walthour 21 years ago slept in his father's cot at the side of the track. He was only a few months old. And he resented in no uncertain terms the loud cheering of the crowd which awakened him. The cheering was occasioned by a sensational finish being made by his father.

Futility reaches the nth degree in the six-day bike race. Shey ride and ride but get no place. It the riders followed a straight line they could get from here to San Diego in six days.

Three deaf mutes in one of those cheap auction rooms talking with their fingers. Their backs were turned to the auctioneer so they could not have been reading his lips. I watched them for some time, but saw them buy nothing.

When Henry Clews was a very young man he bought a seat on the stock exchange for $500. He was the oldest member when he died last year. His heirs have just sold the seat for $97,000.

Love's a funny proposition. A Brooklyn man in his twenties married a woman of 45 and deserted her, running away with a sweet young thing of 75.

Rail Board Considers Trainmen Wage Boosts

Chicago, Dec. 11—Increase in wages and adjustment of rules affecting the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen on twenty railroads were subjects before the United States Railroad Labor Board here today.

The railroads concerned were: Ann Arbor Railroad, Bangor & Arroostok; Central Indiana; Chicago & Alton; Cincinnati, Indianapolis & Louisville; Cincinnati, Indianapolis & Western; Cumberland & Pennsylvania; Denver & Rio Grande; Rio Grande Southern; Detroit & Mackinac; Green Bay & Western; Kansas City, Mexico & Orient; Manistique & Lake Superior; Maine Central; Portland Terminal; Midland Valley; Minnesota, Dakota & Western; New Orleans & Great Northern; New Orleans Public Belt and the Toledo, Peoria & Western.

When the board renders a decision virtually every railroad in the country will have reached a settlement with its conductors and trainmen based on the award made originally to the New York entral and its conductors and trainmen. This award was a five percent increase in wages and a regulation of rules the railroad asked in return.

After the New York Central award it was put into effect on all eastern and virtually all western roads.

an Oil Man is Only One to Call J. D. "John"

Worth, Texas, Dec. 11—J. C. , president of the Ohio Oil ny, is one of the widely known attending the sessions in Fort of the American Petroleum te.

lad was born with a silver in his mouth when John Rock- and I were young," Mr. Don- d. "He worked in a grocery or $7 a month and I dragged a of tools about the oil fields a ars later.

I suppose it is true that I e only living man who calls feller by his given name. We visit. We've been intimate s for 50 years. I went into the rd Oil Company when I was 25 old. But by that time I had a little money and all I had, together with my holdings went into the Standard with me."

Mr. Donnell is credited with having produced more crude oil than any other man in the industry in the world. Since he became president of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, in 1887, he has drilled 40,000 producting wells. Today as president of the Ohio Oil Co., he has 20,000 producing wells.

"Oh, my, indeed, I am not as old as John Rockefeller. Just say I'm past 60 and let it go at that."

"Yes sometimes I play golf with John. But when I want a real game I get a real golfer." The veteran spoke lustily. "I can trim anybody who isn't a professional. I beat 19 out 25 crack players once and I have a bunch of golf trophies."

"I prize neither my golf trophies nor my oil trophies most in life," he said in answering a question. "I prize most of the good I have been able to do for young men who are just starting out in life."

ATTENTION.

House cleaning time is here. Those who are particular always use our white paper for pantry shelves and bureau drawers. It is put up for your convenience in rolls priced from 10c to 50c.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS

A candy or sweetmeat box is made by covering a tin box first with flannel for padding and then with strips of plain and plaise ribbon woven into a checkerboard design. The rim is finished with bands of the plain ribbon, carefully pasted in shape.

CREDIBILITY OF MORTIMER HIT IN FORBES CASE

Differences in His Various Testimony Pointed Out.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Continuing the cross examination of E. H. Mortimer, the government's chief witness, for the fourth day, counsel for the defense in the Forbes-Thompson conspiracy trial renewed with vigor today their attack upon the credibility of the witness.

Virtually the entire morning session was devoted by Randolph Laughlin, defense counsel, to the development of differences between Mortimer's testimony in the present case and the story he told before the Senate Veterans' investigating committee in 1923.

The witness denied he had determined in July, 1922, upon a plan of action designed to bring about the destruction of Charles R. Forbes, then director of the Veterans' Bureau, because of his friendship with Mrs. Mortimer.

Forbes and J. W. Thompson are on trial for conspiracy to defraud the government through hospital contracts from the Veterans' Bureau during Forbes' administration.

Mortimer, who was a representative of Thompson's firm in the preliminary negotiation and bidding, testified on direct examination that he split 35 percent of the contractor's profits with Forbes.

He was cross-examined at length today concerning a statement before the Senate Committee, that he had divided the profits with A. M. McDonald, Seattle ship builder.

Mortimer also denied that he had told Mrs. Mortimers father in August, 1922, that he would "get Forbes" even if he had to swear himself into jail to do it. Later he admitted he had testified before the Senate Committee that his "hostility toward Forbes" animated his disclosures before that body.

"Mrs. Mortimer begged me not to go before the committee and testify against Forbes," he said.

Judge is "Positive" Young was Indicted

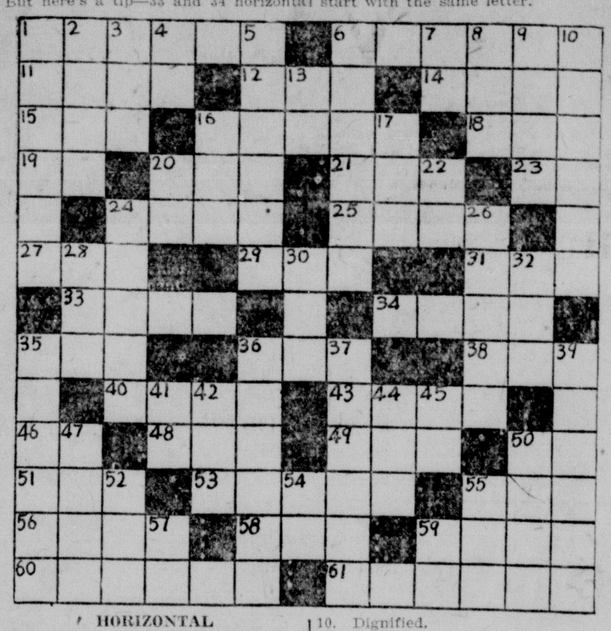

Harrisburg, Ill., Dec. 11.—Circuit Judge A. E. Somers of Harrisburg, who presided over the recent Pope county grand jury at Golconda, said today he was "positive" S. Glenn Young, former Williamson county liquor raider, had been indicted by the grand jury on an assault to murder charge.

Judge Somers said the indictment was drawn by J. W. Browning, a Harrisburg attorney, who had been employed by Pope county as a special prosecutor. He said State's Attorney C. C. Conley was not present at the time, which probably accounted for his statement, made public yesterday, that no true bill had been returned against Young.

The Tangle

She had evidently been contemplating suicide for a day or two for everything of her own personal affairs was put into perfect order and she left three letters, one for Karl, one for her mother and one for Leslie.

Karl handed me the letter that was written to him asking me pathetically if I thought he could have prevented the terrible tragedy. The poor old chap seems to have more trouble than he should. It almost makes one doubt the justice of fate when one thinks about him. Certainly he has been one of the best of men and certainly he has had great sorrows all his life. He is a good example of that old idea that "riches do not make for happiness."

Poor Alice's letter to her husband was the most pathetic thing I have ever read.

It commenced: "I can not live any longer dearest; for I know that I am going mad. Oh, I have tried and tried to be sane and not give way to my terrible jealousies and bad temper. It has been less and less possible for me to control myself and I have known for some days now that unless I make way with myself, some day I will do something much more terrible. I will kill one or both of the two people I love the most, you and Leslie. For the last three days a terrible specter has haunted me, commanding me to kill you both.

"I knew that I should do this that day that I struck Leslie. I wanted to kill her then. I saw red, Karl. I was not myself for I really love my sister quite as much I think as I do you. She is so sweet, so generous and so kindly. The only favor that I can do for her is to put it out of my power to do her any more harm.

"In a little while, Karl, you will forget me for although you have been very, very good to me, and although you have told me you loved me, yet I know that you have never loved anyone but Leslie.

"Don't thing for a moment, dear, that I think you have been disloyal to me in any way. When I have been myself I have always known that you have been nothing else but the most sincere and honest man that I have ever known. I know beyond doubt that after you married me you tried to forget Leslie utterly and that if I had not kept up my jealous nagging over those pearls we might have perhaps lived happily together. I also know that with me gone out of your life you will have the chance that you deserve of being happy again.

"I have loved you, dearest, and although when I am going to do something that will bring great sorrow to you, I still love you perhaps more than I ever did before. You are too young to be shackled to an insane woman and Karl—Karl, I know that I am losing my mind. Alice."

I confess, Jack, that I wept like a child as I read that letter. It was the last cry of a despairing soul. She was so young, poor child. We've all blamed her when all the while there was something wrong, some little change in that brain of hers which was sending her irresistibly over that "border-line of sanity" we talked about.

The awful part of it all was at times that she knew that something was wrong with her.

It is a terrible thing and you ought to be here.

FINAL VOTE SHOALS BILL APPROACHING

Opponents of Measure Determined to Block It.

Washington, Dec. 11.—With the Underwood Muscle Shoals bill approaching a final vote in the Senate, opponents of the bill are using determined measures to obstruct its passage.

Supporters of the bill still are confident the measure will pass the Senate this week, but the opposition leaders claim there has been some change of sentiment on the bill.

Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, provided the climax of the opposition attack on the measure yesterday when he declared it would virtually "give" Muscle Shoals to the Alabama Power Company. Vigorously denying the contention, Senator Underwood, democrat, of Alabama, author of the measure, declared that company would have no more opportunity than any other to lease the property under the terms of his measure.

Senator Underwood accepted an amendment offered to his bill yesterday by Chairman Norris of the Senate Agricultural Committee, an opponent of the measure, which would require the conversion into fertilizer of all nitrogen not needed for national defense. Other proposed amendments were before the senate today.

Hope for Settlement of McKinley Lines Strike

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 11—Hope for settlement in the strike of motormen and conductors on the Illinois Traction System was seen today when it was announced that a committee representing the trainmen would confer with C. F. Handshy, manager of the road, sometime today.

The trainmen, at their meeting last night, are understood to have voted overwhelmingly to stand firm for time and a half overtime, but leaders on both sides seemed hopeful of a settlement soon.

Santa Says Hardware

SANTA'S LONG EXPERIENCE HAS TAUGHT HIM THAT FOLKS PREFER USEFUL GIFTS—SOMETHING OF EVERYDAY USEFULNESS THAT MAKES THINGS EAISER OR PLEASANTER FOR THE OWNER.

For Mother, for Instance

What would she appreciate more—what would do more to make her daily tasks lighter—than a completely equipped kitchen? She'll welcome any gift along that line. We'd suggest:

Waffle Irons — Percolators
Roasters — Pyrex
Tea Kettles — Food Choppers
Double Boilers
Knife Grinders
Casseroles — Toasters

Dad, Too

Dad will appreciate a GOOD saw; a GOOD hammer; a GOOD pair of pliers; a GOOD screw driver. We emphasize GOOD because most every man has a hammer, saw, screw driver and pliers — but rarely GOOD ones.

And for the Kids

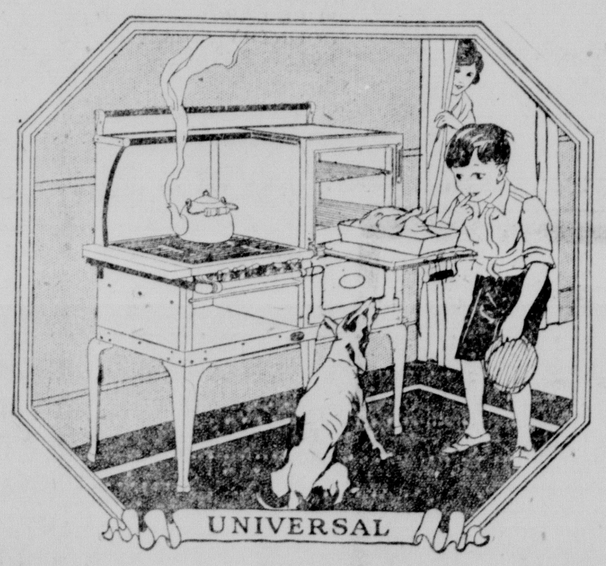

Roller Skates — Cosater Wagons
Skates — Sleds
Velocipedes — Bicycles
Tool Chests — Scooters

Something for the Home, Perhaps

An excellent plan, as many have found, is for father and mother and one or two of the older children as well, perhaps, to chip in together for something for the home. For such we'd suggest:

USE X-RAY IN FITTING SHOES IN DIXON SHOP

Latest Devise Will Insure Perfect Fit of Shoes.

The era of cramped feet, crooked toes, twisted foot bones and improperly fitted shoes is over, according to the proprietors of the Fashion Boot Shop, where an "X-ray Shoe Fitter" has just been installed and put in operation. By using this machine the salesman can see the defects to be overcome in fitting and the customer can see just how the shoe fits and how the bones of the feet look within the shoe.

The construction of the machine follows the x-ray principle. Two views can be had of the feet, dorsal and lateral. The customer steps on a little platform, places his feet within the partly covered plate, stoops slightly to look through the projector and the salesman throws the switch which provides the x-ray light. Instantly the customer and the salesman see every bone in the customer's feet, showing whether they are "shoe cramped" or straight and natural.

The salesman looks at the feet through another projector and a pointer is so devised that he can literally "touch" the trouble spots and point out defective fitting results.

A drawer slides out to furnish means of getting a lateral or side view of the foot. The projector is so devised that the customer sees the arch bones and position of the foot in the shoe. Pictures can also be taken of the lateral views.

The machine is the "latest thing" in shoe fitting, according to the managers of the Fashion. They state that since salesmen can now show customers the exact position of the bones of the feet, larger shoes are demanded to do away with cramping.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

DILUTION OF GOSPEL HIT BY PREACHER

Moderator Tells Presbyterians Some of Religion Faults.

Chicago, Dec. 11—Many of the restatements and re-interpretations of Christian doctrine today are nothing but sheer unbelief when stripped of their disguise, declared Dr. Clarence E. Macartney, moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church, in an address prepared for delivery before the students and faculty of McCormick Theological Seminary. The Presbyterian National Conference is in session here.

Unbelief, the love of popularity and the menace of agnosticism were called some of the adversaries of the minister by Dr. Macartney. Love of popularity, he said "tempts men to dilute the gospel and to delete the bible until the grand and peculiar accents of the Christian religion are entirely lost and the voice of the preacher becomes only a lovely sound."

Agnosticism, he called the great peril of the Christian church today, when "believers are ridiculed as ignorant and fanatic whereas men who are avowed agnostics as to certain great new testament facts and doctrines are among the most praised and eagerly sought after of Christian teachers and writers and preachers."

Present day religion is "non-creative" he averred. "Men are beginning to realize that back of the words "progressive revelation," "dynamic Christianity", "social vision" and kindred favorite terms of present day teaching and preaching there is very little of the bread and water of eternal life."

It is too spacious a figure to speak of the present world as a great neighborhood, said Mrs. Charley K. Roys, New York, foreign executive secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions in an address prepared for delivery before the National Conference.

Modern industrialism and national consiousness she termed the forces challenging Christianity in mission lands. Whether they will bring weal or woe depends on their foundation on Christian principles of justice and honesty.

Dangerous Love

A bewitchingly beautiful girl, Anna had no end of admirers, but she did not dream she could fall in love with another woman's husband—her sister's husband least of all. Yet there came a time when, living under the same roof with them, she found herself drifting into an affair that taxed her powers of resistance to the limit.

How, with gradually weakening strength, she fought against this growing passion, and the stress of circumstances that forced matters to a climax, is a drama of human emotions that will hold you enthralled. Anna tells her story under the title of "A Soul for Sale"—one of the many remarkable features in the January True Story Magazine. Buy it at any newsstand today.

Set yourself straight on these

Bran facts!

If you eat bran it is because you seek relief from constipation and toxic poisoning!

To get the relief your physician will tell you that bran will give—you must be certain to get Kellogg's Bran, BECAUSE it is ALL BRAN! That is the kind your physician intends you to eat.

You only delay positive relief when you eat foods with a partial bran content, because they can only help you in proportion to the amount of bran they contain! You haven't time to waste on 25 per cent or 50 per cent relief when you know that Kellogg's Bran will give you 100 per cent relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Every day's delay lets your condition become worse! Pills and cathartics can only aggravate distressing conditions. Part bran foods cannot permanently help you! They do not have the necessary bulk or roughage that makes ALL BRAN positive in its mechanical action! That is why Kellogg's Bran is a necessity!

Kellogg's Bran—because it is ALL BRAN—is GUARANTEED to give you permanent relief if you will eat two tablespoonfuls each day, or as much with each meal in chronic cases!

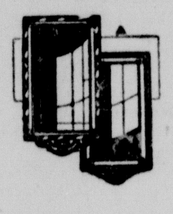

If you would realize how delicious Kellogg's Bran is—cooked, krumbled and ready to eat—and what it means to your health—you would not lose a minute starting to eat it! All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran in the Red and Green package.

The Well-Dressed Man

By BEAUNASH

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

The Half-Length Robe

Now that Christmas is within a biscuit toss, the age-old query catapults itself at you, "What gift for a man?" Is it going to elicit satisfaction or sarcasm? Holiday presents for a man would fill a catalogue, though many of them, alas! should fill a waste-basket. Yet, of humans man is probably the easiest of all to please, simply because his wants, unlike a woman's, are practical and elemental, rather than aesthetic and fanciful. Have you ever noticed the beatific expression that lights up a man's face when he cuddles a decrepit old pipe or lets his eyes rove to a bag of disreputable golf sticks? Yea, verily, I say unto ye that a man is wax in your hands if you only approach him on his most susceptible side—his craving for creature comfort.

No gift could well be more suitable and acceptable than a lounging robe. It is something that few men would choose for themselves, yet that every man would be delighted to have some man or woman choose for him. Instead of putting it away, he will put it on and wear it in the very shadow of the Christmas tree. Such a present meets a personal and practical need as distinguished from so may gifts that go out of sight and out of mind even before the Christmas candles grow cold in the sockets.

Latterly, there has been a remarkable improvement in the designing and making of men's house robes. Their ingenuity and artistry would take one's breath away if Volstead hadn't thought of it first. Among the rich, resplendent materials are cashmere, foulard, poplin, velvet, plain silk, brocaded silk, Jacquarded silk, matelasse, Persian effects, Paisley shawlings, flannel, double-faced wool and many more.

Besides the full-length and the three-quarter-length robes, there is the new half-length, pictured in the accompanying sketch. This means a bit odd at first glace, but, though not in general use yet, it is a smart, trim and convenient garment as a slip-on. Many men do not fancy the larger robes, because they feel awkward in them. Such an abbreviated robe, vaguely reminiscent of an art student's smock, is made of heavy brocaded silk. It has the shawl collar, front edges, sleeves and pocket tops faced with contrasting satin. The broad tape girdle is of the same material. To be sure, the range of colors, patterns and fabrics is almost endless.

Rondout Mail Robbers Were Sentenced to Prison

Chicago, Dec. 11.—Herbert Holliday, Brent Glasscock and the four Newton brothers who pleaded guilty in the $2,000,000 mail train robbery trial were sentenced to Leavenworth prison today, the sentences ranking from one year and one day to 25 years, Holliday receiving the maximum sentence.

Holliday had refused to aid the government or turn over $100,000 in loot alleged by government agents still to be retained by him.

Brent Glasscock and Willis Newton, the chiefs of the actual robbers, and Jesse, Joseph and Willie Newton were the others.

Glasscock, Willis and Willie, the latter of whom was wounded during the robbery and who was brought into court today on a stretcher, each was sentenced to serve 12 years.

Joseph Newton, 22, the youngest of the brothers, received three years and Jesse, who did nothing more than help guard the loot, was let off by Federal Judge Cliffe with the lightest sentence, one year and one day.

William J. Fahy and James Murray who were charged with being the arch-plotters, stood trial and were convicted. They are serving 25-year sentences in Atlanta Prison.

CORRIGAN

by EDMUND SNELL

© 1924 by NEA Service Inc.

VII—PROTECTING PAMELA

FELLOWES—long, lean and hatchet faced—looked up at his employer.

"Well?" he demanded presently. "What d'you think of it?"

Corrigan set his feet wide apart on the springy turf and surveyed a squat, square erection of such startling newness that its yellow timbers glistened in the light of the noonday sun.

"There's only one thing wrong with it that I can see."

"Well?" snapped back the assistant, fully prepared to defend the slightest adverse criticism of a masterpiece of which he was not unjustly proud.

Corrigan laughed.

"It's the best bungalow we've got—and a deuced sight too comfortable for a mere bachelor!"

Fellowes winced. He could never get over the idea that the genial colossus he served was trying to get in a dig at him over the fair female crook he was once almost beguiled into marrying.

"That's not my fault. What chance is there, I'd like to know, of knockin' across a decent girl in this forsaken wilderness?"

"Precious little," admitted the other cheerfully; "but I can't help thinking you had something of the sort in mind when you designed this palatial residence." He strolled leisurely to the foot of the steps leading up to a broad veranda that completely encircled the house. "It'd make a vast difference, Fellowes."

The assistant nodded.

"I know. I'm essentially a gregarious beast. I wasn't cut out for a single existence. When I look round at other fellers who don't even deserve the luck they've had in the matrimonial market—it makes me positively envious. Take young Boyce, for example. When you ran into him, he was coming east on spec.; he'd nothing in particular with which to support a wife and not the remotest prospect of qualifying for a job that'd enable him to do so. And yet, before you took him under your paternal wing, he'd persuaded one of the nicest women I've ever met to throw in her lot with him. It beats me!"

They gained the veranda together and settled themselves in newly arrived Sandakan chairs. Fellowes pushed across the cigarets.

"Boyce was lucky," said Corrigan, helping himself. "And the fact that he married Mrs. Boyce went a long way with me when I decided to offer him a billet. There are all kinds of girls in this wicked old world, but, as far as our sort of existence is concerned, you can safely divide 'em into two categories—the women who fidget—and those who don't. Fidgety wives negative any good work their husbands may do, they're never happy anywhere and always wishing they were somewhere else; that kind of restlessness is infernally catching and the man who sees more of 'em than anybody else eventually succumbs to the infection. Now Diana's just the reverse. From the first she made up her mind to like the east and she didn't accept Boyce with her eyes shut. She knows his weaknesses better than he thinks and tackles them in a quiet, unobtrusive fashion that is a credit to her. An observant man can detect traces of it every day. He's dropped that confounded drawl of his already and that knife-edge crease to his slacks is pretty well a thing of the past. Now if you could find a second Diana—!"

Fellowes looked up sharply.

"Thought you didn't approve of married assistants?"

"I don't; in the broader meaning of the term. I'm all against 'em; but there are exceptions—and Diana Boyce is one of them."

The first assistant clasped his hands at the back of his neck and yawned.

"It's no go, old son," he said. "I'm afraid I'm fated to appreciate the inner comforts of this bungalow alone! Boarded ceilings, Corrigan! None of your rat-infested sago thatches either! I caught Arundill observing it enviously from the other side of the wire. Queer beast, Arundill! I gave him a polite 'good morning'—and he turned his back abruptly and strode away. I don't fancy he cottons altogether to the idea of having neighbors. Millett says he wanted this strip of land himself, but started negotiations too late."

Corrigan flicked his ash over the rail and stared upward.

"Watch Arundill!" he murmured presently.

"KEEP A WATCHFUL EYE ON OUR NEIGHBOR."

"Oh! Why?"

"Bit of a swine, I fancy. I've never had much to do with him myself, but he's always struck me as being, well, not quite white. You'll understand me well enough to know I wouldn't say a thing like that of a fellow countryman of mine, if I didn't think it was justified. He's not been in Borneo very long—a year at the outside, but quite long enough to earn for himself a tolerably unpleasant reputation. He got into hot water over illtreating some coolies. They say he's about as unscrupulous as they make 'em, into the bargain, and, by heaven, he looks it!"

"We're not likely to have much to do with him."

"That's true enough, but a man of his caliber's quite up to jumping our boundary for sticking difficulties in our way, especially if Millett's information's anywhere near correct. It's best to decide on a firm line of action from the start: Don't give Mr. Arundill an inch."

"I won't," rejoined the other grimly.

Since Corrigan's return from Europe he had reorganized and extended the Orang-Puteh estate until it scarcely resembled its former self. Another two thousand-odd acres had been taken in and Fellowes installed in this added territory to knock it into shape. Millett and Fortescue—those two inseparable juniors—were attached to him for duty, while John Everard Boyce superintended—under Corrigan himself—the work on the older and more wieldly ground. A sort of central clubhouse was in course of erection, where the general difficulties of estate work might be amicably discussed over a game of billiards or tennis; for Corrigan was versed in the art of selecting good men—and keeping them. And in the carrying out of his new ambitions, the great man was sparing no expense, for his interests were wide and his farsightedness proverbial. Already, in his mind's eye, he saw a vast, clean weeded area of waving rubber trees, intersected with good roads and a miniature network of shining metals to convey the produce of his trees to the railhead; he saw white houses in trim gardens, huge storing sheds, improved machinery; and more, still more clean limbed, conscientious assistants, as proud as his present men were that they worked for Corrigan. Corrigan loved the orient—as he knew it, but few had the good fortune to see it through Corrigan's eyes.

Corrigan's dream country was a vast, romantic orient converted from the unhealthy zone it actually is to what it is popularly believed to be—by a careful preservation of the spices and an utter elimination of the smells! To drain the swamp hot-beds of malaria and drive all that is venomous far beyond striking distance of the white community. Utopian, perhaps! but Corrigan within a short while had achieved much, so much in fact that his successes lent him encouragement to carry on.

A broadminded, broadlisted social reformer this Corrigan! with a keen sense of man's duty toward his neighbor and an undying enmity toward those whose sole aim in life appeared to be to oppress others. Corrigan, his great shovel-backed topee cocked to one side, coming over the brow of the hill on his stout Bajau pony, was a sight for the gods. And Fellowes—with certain limitations—was a second edition of his chief.

Both men smoked for some time in silence, gazing thoughtfully beyond the open space that had been cleared for Fellowes' house to where the native contractor's men—swarming like flies—wrought havoc upon a time-honored forest of stunted trees. Every now and again a leafy mass would lurch awkwardly to crash presently to the ground amid an ominous tearing and a babel of hoarse cries. To the first assistant there was always some deeper meaning underlying all this, something more than the fact that people eight thousand miles away who held rubber shares were clamoring for inflated dividends. This was another sign of the times, a further step toward the establishment of a new order of things: These aged, unprofitable jungle monarchs—like elderly, bigoted ministers of a past decade, must give way to the eternal advance of the younger generation. Henceforth there would be no more shackling, clogging weeds, no more overcrowding, nothing but clear cut, regularly planters yielders of the precious latex, and the fact that a few thousand of the legitimate denizens of the forest would be forced to seek new homes didn't seem to matter very much. And that was precisely where he saw eye to eye with Corrigan.

"It'll be mighty quiet over here at night," said the planter suddenly. "Got anything to read?"

Fellowes nodded.

"I shall do most of my office work in the evening—and there's always the gramophone."

Corrigan rose.

"Then there's nothing you want particularly, I take it?"

"Nothing I can think of at the moment. I'll send a chit across if there is. Aren't you stopping to lunch?"

The other shook his head.

"I've an appointment with Long-Yin about canteen stores at two. Thanks all the same. Cheerio!"

He went off down the steps to where his mount was tethered.

"Don't forget," he shouted back as he swung into the saddle: "hurry the work along so that we can pick our weather for burning—and keep a watchful eye on our neighbor."

Have Difficulty Getting Murder Jurors

Shelbyville, Ill., Dec. 11.—Notwithstanding forty-seven talesmen, including seventeen of the regular panel, have been examined as probable jurors in the trial of Frank Smith, alleged murderer of William Funkhouser, not one has been accepted and court has recessed tentatively until another venire of fifty men should appear.

Though questioned on these points not a man has admitted membership in the Ku Klux Klan or the Anti-Horse Thief Association. Neither has one admitted prejudice against the negro race. Smith, who is a negro, is alleged to have killed Funkhouser September 30. Harry Davis, another negro is awaiting trial on the same charge, while Harry Cornell, alias Gray Eye, is being sought as the ring leader in the crime.

REQUESTS FOR RE-ASSIGNMENT OF PLATES BIG

Emmerson Says They're Greater Than Ever in His Regime.

Never before have requests for re-assignment of automobile license numbers been so heavy as they are this year, Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson stated today. In former years applications for re-assignments were for four figures or less.

"This year the requests run from Number 1 to 1,000,000," Mr. Emmerson said, "and practically every number under 10,000 has been re-assigned to the former holder, while there are thousands of letters on my desk asking for a number of from two to four figures.

"I have often wished there was some way in which low numbers numbers could be manufactured, for I would need about 10,000 numbers below 1,000 to supply all of the requests that are received. The realization of the desirability of low numbers is very evident in the fact that many holders who are releasing their numbers attempt to 'will' them or convey them by 'warranty' deed to a friend.

"This, of course, is impossible as the law provides that if the holder of a number does not apply for re-assignment on or before December 1, that number is open and in to be placed by the Secretary of State."

A prominent banker in Illinois who held a desirable four figure number and who wished to release it, being aware of the great demand for such numbers mailed a form letter to many residents over the State in which he stated:

"Subject to prior acceptance, I will undertake to have the transfer made of this number to you for use on your car for $25. No payment to be made to me until transfer is made.

"Wire or write me at one if you wish to accept this offer. Number as low as this are hard to obtain now."

The banker of course lost all right to his number when he failed to apply on or before December 1 for its re-assignment, and the number was assigned in the regular way by Secretary Emmerson.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

THE SPIRIT OF THE CAUSE OF THE NO-TOBACCO LEAGUE

Abraham Lincoln once said concerning the cause of human slavery "I am nothing, but the cause is everything." So the spirit of those who have given the No-Tobacco reform special prayer and study is that the cause is tremendously important to the welfare of the human race.

This is especially true when we consider the welfare of the great institutions like the church, the home, our educational system and community welfare.

When an intelligent man or woman considers the future prosperity of these great institutions just named, it is clearly diserned that the narcotic poisons contained in tobacco are one of the great enemies of civilization and especially Christian civilization.

To be a drug addict one does not need to be enslaved by opium or heroin or cocaine. Nicotine has more people in its toils, bound hand and foot, than all other drugs combined.

If the user of tobacco is not a "slave" let him try to break the bonds; then he will know, and there is no other proof needed.

The smoking habit undoubtedly interfers with efficiency in any line of industry. No one can divide his time and attention between a cigar, cigarette or pipe and his work and accomplish as much as he would if he devoted his whole time to his work.

Who are the Fanatics?

Magistrate Foiwell, of Brooklyn, N. Y., in fining a man for smoking in the subway of that city said. "Men like you, who persist in smoking in public places are aiding those fanatics who would like to pass an anti-tobacco law."

Just why those who assert their right to pure air and good health conditions should be called "fanatics" is a mystery. One would think that al sane persons would insist upon such conditions, and that the real fanatics are those who persist in filling the air that others have to breathe, not only with ordinary smoke which all sensible, intelligent people admit is not fit to breathe, but with a smoke that contains also the fumes of a poison the most deadly, except one, known to man.

Most smoking cars and smoking rooms in public places are by far the most filthy places to be found.

Really are not those who persist in befouling the air that others have to breathe and who render smoking cars and rooms positively filthy with tobacco ashes, cigar and cigarette stubs and dirty spittons really entitled to be called something less respectable than fanatics?

Recommendations

We call attention to the sentiment recently expressed in a letter of Herbert Hoover to President Coolidge that "We in America are far behind what a national conscience should demand for the public protection of our children." In nothing else is this lack of conscience more shamelessly exemplified than in the way we are permitting the tobacco business to defile and despoil our children.

We should continue to make education our primary objective. We instruct the Bureau of Literature to work to the end that text books on physiology and hygiene used in our schools and colleges shall treat fairly and fully upon the facts about the effects of nicotine upon human life; that teachers prepare themselves by supplemental study upon the subject to teach the pupils the insidious effects of the tobacco habit; that no teacher be employed whose example is not in complete accordance with the truth to be taught.

That we provide such literature as will be helpful to ministers and other leaders of the church trusting that it will result in an enlightened and exalted Christian conscience and that their example in holiness and cleanliness will be a wholesome one to the young and weak rather than an occasion of stumbling and error.

In view of the law-defiant nature of the tobacco trade, we emphasize the necessity of cultivating in the character of the people a vigilant, vigorous spirit of law observance and law enforcement, the foundation of genuine American Patriotism.

Fewer Cattle on Feed This Year, Dept. Says

Chicago, Dec. 11.—There were only about 88 per cent as many cattle on feed in the eleven corn belt states on Dec. 1, this year, as on the same date in 1923, according to a preliminary estimate issued here today by the United States Department of Agriculture. The number on feed in the western and Pacific states was around 92 per cent of last year. This estimate is based on the movement of stocker and feeder cattle into the corn belt and in different states in the two years and on state estimates made from reports of individual feeders as to their own operations and from estimates of livestock reporters

In the corn belt the reduction in feeding is about the same both east and west of the Mississippi river. All of the important feeding states show reductions of 15 per cent or more except Kansas which shows only 5 per cent.

The shipments of stocker and feeder cattle in the corn belt states from August 1 to December 1 this year were 1,547,000 head compared with 1,858,000 head for the same period in 1923, 1,962,000 in 1920 and 1,938,000 in 1921. The greatest falling off this year was into the states west of the river, especially into Iowa and Missouri.

The reports of feeders as to the character of cattle on feed indicates a larger percentage than last year or cattle weighing over 1000 pounds when put on feed and a considerable reduction in the percentage of feeder calves.

Report Candler and His Wife Reconciled

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 11—Asa G. Candler, capitalist and founder of the Cocoa Cola Company, and his wife, from whom he has been estranged for several months, today were beginning their domestic relations anew following a reconciliation which was affected last night, a story published in the Atlanta Constitution this morning said.

Mr. Candler and his wife separated following her arrest several months ago with two Atlanta men following a raid on an apartment house here. Since that time she has been making her home with her parents. Mr. Candler instituted divorce proceedings but they have not yet been called for trial.

His attorney said last night he had received no orders to seek a dismissal of the suit, the newspaper said.

The newspaper said that members of the Candler family confirmed the reported reconciliation and that Mrs. Candler moved back last night into the Candler residence.
